RE: Complaint/Report Concerning Human Rights Violations/Criminal Offenses
Committed Against Patricia M. Muhammad, U.S. Citizen while in the United Kingdom

To Whom it May Concern:

My name is Patricia M. Muhammad. I am an American and a U.S. born citizen who recently traveled abroad. I departed the United States on December 5, 2021 and arrived in London, England, United Kingdom approximately on December 7, 2021. I followed all necessary UK entry requirements as implemented at the time. After a couple of months during my stay, my purpose for visiting was interfered with. There is a segment of the UK population that is heavily involved in unpopular and unsavory activities that target not only American visitors but foreign visitors as well. Much of this activity was discovered at the hotel I stayed in, namely the Hyatt Place/London Heathrow located at The Grove, Bath Road, Harmondsworth, West Drayton UB7 0DG, United Kingdom +44 20 8759 7777. Some of the crimes and offenses that these employees engaged in were: facilitating the stalking and harassment of certain guests, including me, invasion of privacy, eavesdropping and the facilitation of attempted human trafficking by none other than other American visitors (primarily). Unfortunately, I was one of these targets for several weeks during my stay. Their connivance and international conspiracy of these criminal offenses were heightened with their use of unpopular practices in the vein of referring to it as a "game" or "magic tricks". Nonetheless, this is not the only unfortunate circumstance that I encountered during my UK visit. While some of these employees and their affiliates, whether UK nationals or Americans, used the latter, they compromised my safety.

Approximately at the end of February, 2021 I visited the London Heathrow International airport, with the intention to depart from the UK, I was confronted by multiple individuals. One claimed to be a "doctor", in which later I was aware that he held no physician or other similar license nor was under the direct supervision of an individual who did possess the same. Another had a black vest that appeared to be for combat or military style with a white shirt and black pants. He informed me that "You have no rights." This statement, intent and consequential actions is clearly in violation of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights.¹ My luggage was taken away from me on one of the luggage carts without my permission. There were two other individuals present, one of whom was at least a female. There was no specific reason I was initially aware of why I was targeted other than that I am a woman, a covered Sunni Muslim who is not a UK national. They asked me for my mobile phone, I provided it to another male participant whom I assume was to assist in my travel since he spoke about how I could secure my ticket. I was embarrassed, humiliated, spoken down to in an unnecessarily condescending manner, discriminated against and in the end further harmed as I was removed from the airport. Suddenly I was being transported in a law enforcement vehicle. I did not violate any laws, nor was I accused of doing such. The participants in this group attack asserted that they received reports that I was lost and wandering around the airport (paraphrasing). The mere fact that as an American who was on a valid visa and did not, even by their own actions, commit any criminal act could be involuntary taken and falsely imprisoned in a western nation that is supposedly an ally of the United States demonstrates the extent of discrimination, racism and xenophobia against black American (not African) Sunni Muslims.

I was removed from this vehicle and in a mobile unit system with guards securing the entrance. I was tired, too uncomfortable to sleep and observed my unfamiliar surroundings. The female guard stood at the door making fish "popping" noises with her left hand in her black vest pocket, staring at me to the right. None introduced themselves as legitimate members of security or law enforcement. Not one at the time explained to me the actual agency, department, bureau, whether national or local that they were affiliated with. During this time I received no food. I was treated as a war criminal. All this because I was present at the airport, preparing myself to leave England.

Eventually, I found myself in a bedroom with none of my belongings given to me. I will provide a list of criminal offenses, human rights, civil rights and possible crimes against humanity committed against me during my involuntary stay. At one point, I believed I was a "safe harbour" guest. Nevertheless, I enumerate the following incidents as only a few unfortunate human violations that I experienced during my time at this location that is associated with UK's NHS (National Health Service) agency:

1. Whatever this unfamiliar place was, the doors to the individual rooms and bathrooms locked from the outside, increasing the risk of guests to be raped, involuntarily and/or unduly/unfairly confined or falsely imprisoned with or without an employee or other possible guest against their will. Thus increasing the likelihood of a guest's safety to be compromised.

2. A female employee of apparent West African decent made derogatory comments about me being a Sunni Muslim.

3. For a few weeks several employees, regardless of their race and ethnicity or gender stalked and harassed me within the room I was assigned. This included entering this room in groups of 2 or more seconds after I turn on the shower with my bare body, standing just outside the shower door. This placed me in fear of being raped, ogled, and was a consistent and obvious invasion of my privacy.

4. These so-called health employees mocked certain guests, including myself, by using odd sounds, mockery, threat, intimidation, aggression and abuse of authority. This during the furtherance of their NHS employment and in the vein of members of \vulnerable populations, including myself. This is a form of neglect, abuse and also intentional infliction of emotional distress. As they are health employees who have visitors and guests placed in their care, they are held to a higher standard regarding the physical and mental safeguarding as this is part of their employ, training, and certification.

5. The room I was assigned to had dirty sheets with foreign hairs and pillowcases on it. This not only is a violation of basic safety standards at a semi-healthcare location, but also during an international pandemic in which basic, reasonable cleaning measures were not initially followed for a new entry onto the property. This further compromised my health and safety.

6. Some of the purported employees, those individuals who wore name tags, continued to violate my privacy, safety and place me in continuous fear and/or intimidation of my bodily integrity being compromised by: on multiple dates and throughout the day rushing into the room I was assigned, unexpectedly and oft-times without announcement. Their purpose was unclear. If any asked a question and I responded in a clear and articulate fashion, they would just repeat the question as if I did not answer it or stare to continue to intimidate. Other times I would not respond as their behaviour was not only unprofessional and uncivilized, but appeared to be a vice they used to test guests and visitors responses who are in a vulnerable position in order to skew their 'reports' or comments to other personnel to justify detaining me without valid cause.

7. As this occurred during the winter months, I noticed basic amenities were not provided in the room I was assigned:

- a. No heat or heating unit was provided. There was also no heating or air controls provided within the individual room.
- b. No clock was provided. This was an intentional attempt to ensure visitors would appear disoriented when questioned in an already vulnerable position. This also during the extended and abusive time where all my belongings, including clothing and laptop was withheld from my possession.
- c. There was no form of calendar. See 7(b) above for reference as to NHS neglectful and abusive practices.

8. In addition, the room I was assigned to had no lock. This was a security, health and safety issue. Not only because of the winter season, but just for visitor's/guest's basic security.

9. My personal items, luggage with all my clothes, including undergarments were forcibly withheld from my person without justification. After days of being there, I asked a short, blonde female employee to have my belongings returned to me. She would not make eye contact with me and said she would ask about it. I never received my belongings for over a week. I was also not informed of the location of my personal property or where it was being stored, nor had access to my personal effects during this period. The NHS personnel at this juncture committed larceny and conversion. No one else who was a guest or visitor was continuously subject to this arbitrary interference with my right of access to my belongings. This is in contravention and in violation of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights.²

10. As a result of (9), I was forced to remain in soiled underwear for a week, even after my menses began. This though I requested access to my personal belongings at this point two times. I had to hand wash the same underwear, which was now stained with blood from my menstrual cycle on a daily basis until the employees would return my possessions to me.

11. On more than one occasion I requested to speak with the local police. The first time I requested to speak to London's local law enforcement was the day after my involuntary arrival. The West African female member of personnel whom I spoke to referred to herself as "Max". She said that I cannot speak to the police until I speak to a "doctor".

12. One night, a West African employee made several sexual innuendos and threats, spoke to me in a condescending manner, implied that I am not intelligent and overall undermining my rights as a possible asylum seeker.

13. One particular West African male member of personnel stated that he "will rape her every day until she returns to her home country." [statement is written as accurately as possible]. This criminal offense, conspiracy and threat to commit rape, sexual assault, battery and a crime based on gender (my being female) is also a human rights violation and likely considered a crime against humanity.

14. The hut off power for the showers in individual rooms are controlled by a button outside the room. On occasion employees were controlling and flooding the shower from the outside, either cutting my shower too short or flooding the area.

² See the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, Art. 17: " No one shall be arbitrarily deprived of his property."; see also Art. 18: " Everyone has the right of equal access to public service in his country." [emphasis added].

15. One Caucasian female employee, a housekeeper made a derogatory reference to skin colour, ethnic origin.

- a. She also made disparaging religious remarks.
- b. This is discrimination based on colour, ethnicity, national origin and skin colour as well as a form of xenophobia.

16. Although this was mentioned prior, several NHS employees continued to enter assigned room at the time of taking shower resulting in a my having a continuous fear for my safety. This was an invasion of privacy, placing me in constant fear of my safety being compromised including possible sexual assault, assault and battery. Sometimes I had to hold the shower door closed (solid wooden) until they left the room.

17. There were several days in which NHS employees continuously entered my assigned room nearly every five minutes and opening and slamming the door from the outside, flicking with the doorknob for no reason. They did not enter. They did not announce themselves, nor on any of these occasions did they address me. This was continuous harassment and intimidation.

18. In the middle of the night, West African male staff members entered my assigned room, causing me to quickly awaken and see men hovering over me looking at the length of my body while I held on to the duvet cover. They would also bang on the door, play with the handle.

19. On one occasion an African male member of personnel stated that, "I was gonna rape her until I found out that she was a lawyer." [this statement is as accurate as I can remember it].

20. On one occasion the only meal I received was two pieces of toast, butter and jam within a 24 hour period. I could not recall or jot down the date because I was deprived of writing utensils and paper as well as not having access to my laptop.

21. The day after this one I receive absolutely no food at all, including no water.

22. The following day, the only meal I received was two pieces of toast, butter and jam. That was it.

23. Approximately a day after this one, and for three consecutive days I had little to no soap for personal hygiene, this still after making request for personal cleaning products.

24. On more than one occasion I had no access to fresh drinking water.

25. On days where the blonde female activities coordinator began to appear and ask about if I wanted to participate in activities, I requested pen and paper. These initial occasions I never received any.

26. One day a West African male employee referred to me as "lazy" though I was refused pen and paper and access to my laptop on two different occasions, continuously deprived of sleep, food and access to clean drinking water.

27. Male personnel continued to enter my assigned room at night looking over the length of my body while I am confined in bed. I had a fear to sit up or remove myself from the bed. This is false imprisonment, harassment, threat and intimidation.

28. When I began to receive meals, on at least 2-t occasions I was brought soiled/used utensils.

29. I did not use these soil utensils. 2-3 days in a row was given potato and beans. It was unknown if the food had been rejected by another person or otherwise compromised since the utensils were previously used when presented to me.

30. I requested for NHS employee to contact police. Again my requests was denied.

31. March 08, 2022: I was given a baked potato and tangerine as a meal. I received dirty utensils on this occasion as well.

32. I requested a clean towel to bathe. I never received it. I had the same soiled towel, hand towel for over 6 days.

33. I was forced to wear the same soiled undergarments/underwear for at least 6 days even after menses began.

34. I requested a clean shirt from one of the members of personnel because I was forced to wear the same clothing for 6 days and was refused access to my own belongings, including my clothing. I never received a clean shirt.

35. March 09, 2022. I still did not receive or have access to my belongings until this date. An employee entered my assigned room with my luggage. There were three West African females initially stating that I cannot keep my luggage/personal effects in my room, but can only remove a few items and they would give me permission to look through my belongings. I initially did not respond to the blonde female employee. Then she asked whether I would like to speak to another employee. After she left, three of other West African employees stated that they were to lock my belongings under the bed though I would not have access and they would only have the key. I refused. One of the three stated that I could keep my luggage out like this and stay here. I responded "fine" then I would take my luggage and leave since that was my only option. Two additional African male employees appeared as to intimidate me and to continue their false imprisonment.

36. March 10, 2022: A brunette female employee with glasses who did not identify herself by name, role, or position requested to take a photograph of me. I refused. She asked/requested to take a photograph of me a second time stating that they might not allow me to leave the premises/exit their property ever/at all if I don't. This behaviour/conduct is:

- a. false imprisonment.
- b. Attempt to use my name, image or likeness without my permission.
- c. Abuse of authority
- d. Neglect in furtherance of NHS employ.
- e. Threat, intimidation and possible kidnapping.

This appeared only minutes after someone claiming to be an advocacy counselor. This person with the camera did not identify herself by first or last name or by her position.

37. March 10, 2022, 12:00pm/noon. Three different employees entered. One West African female and two West African males with khaki pants also entered. They suddenly demanded that I remove all of my belongings. I refused. I stated that three other employees had already stated that it was alright to keep my belongings/luggage where it was as long as it was out of the way. The two "henchmen" in khakis attempted to still remove my possessions nonetheless. Another employee, a brunette with glasses stated that they needed to go through my belongings and lock them under the bed. She stated that the other employees were erroneous and had them leave my assigned room so she and another could take inventory.

38. March 11, 2022, 12:14 pm: White female employee with clear framed glasses knocked on the door and asked if she could assist with anything. I requested to use my laptop charger which is locked under the bed with my luggage. This employee stated that:

a. No charges could be in the bedroom, if they could charge it, it has to be done in their office. I stated that this is not what the other employee by the name of Lynn said. She said, "Lynn, who's Lynn? I don't know who Lynn is." I stated that this not what she said (reiterated). Then I said I will just keep it (charger) locked under my bed. Then she said "o.k." though she stated it could not be there in the first place. She refused to state her name or identify her position though I had requested the former.

39. Unknown female employee playing with There was no knock, no announcement of presence nor any request made. Antagonism and harassment.

40. NHS female employee stating that she observed me staring at the wall. When I was taking a break from writing.

41. March 11, 2022: Max, the West African female employee spoke to me condescendingly, assuming that I had a lapse of memory of the events that took place the day prior when she and another set of African employees attempted to remove my belongings again. They a. they are the only employees that kept mentioning my possessions.

42. March 11, 2022: A female member of NHS personnel enters and claims only to "collect your plate." Then peculiarly asks if I have a metal spoon" in my possession. I am unsure of this was literal, since they only bring in plastic utensils, have already searched all of my belongings and I have never left my assigned room before. Otherwise this query made no practical sense to me.

43. March 11-12, 2022: A West African female employee attempted to molest/sexual assault me while I was asleep. I felt her attempt to remove the lower portion of my coat that I had under the cover because there was no heat. I jolted upwards from this violation of my bodily integrity, invasion of privacy and attempt to cause me possible bodily harm while I was asleep. I said nothing further after my reaction and the West African employee quickly left.

44. March 13, 2022: A Caucasian female member of staff referred to me as a hypocrite after I turned in modest gesture because of her aggressive attempt to close the storage of the bed. This was verbal abuse.

45. A Caucasian female employee walks inside room, asks if I want to play bingo. I said "no". She asked again and said are you sure. I do not respond. She enters aggressively and questions where I am staff, nurse or a patient. Again, I do not respond. She refuses to leave. I press the call button for help. A unnamed male employee walks by to escort her out. She keeps asking if I am a patient, I have never seen her before. The other male employee says "you can't do that" to the female without a tag and escorts her away; but not before I enter the bathroom and she attempts to follow me there as well.

46. March 13, 2022: I received no food or meals today. I asked two different employees on two different occasions to help in retrieving my own property underneath the bed. Each time they stated they would send another employee. The second time they sent a West a West African female employee. This employee threatened to fee me beans and potatoes for a week. I believe her name is Max. The second employee sent Max to fulfill my request to which I refused/declined to safety concerns.

47. March 13, 2022: A West African male staff member peering through the blinds in the middle of the night for an extended time. He then hurriedly opened the door to enter until he noticed that his disruption caused me to suddenly awaken. He quickly turned around and left. This is threat, intimidation, fear of sexual assault and fear of theft of personal property.

48. March 14, 2022: A Caucasian female member of staff mocked my religious attire as she engaged in communicated with a mentally compromised, 50+ aged Caucasian me guest from down the hall of my assigned room. "In the name of Jesus, you need to remove that thing from your head," the staff member joined her in laughter and the mockery. This is racial intolerance, xenophobia, religious discrimination, religious harassment, intimidation/threat, bullying, temporary confinement of a member of vulnerable population as they were just outside of the door of my assigned room, false imprisonment all while suing these tactics as threats to dehumanize, mock and unjustifiably deter vulnerable visitors in exercising her due rights within this building, private quarters assigned and in contravention of local ordinance, Parliamentary legislation on religious intolerance and freedom and international law including the Universal Declaration of Human Rights.³

49. March 15, 2022: I received no breakfast and no lunch.

50. Ward manager enters room. This is a short, dark skinned West African male who states that it was his understanding that I needed the internet. I responded "no". he returned with the "nurse" and "doctor". I ask if it is required for the manager to be present. After he leaves, the "doctor" asks if I still needed the internet and that they have wi-fi access and I could book my flight from there. Then he kept asking me if I am booking my flight. The "nurse" claims she can request login credentials. I said I do not want login credentials. The "doctor" keeps asking more than once if I have a phone. I respond "no". Then he asks if I want I can get a SIM card for a phone or tablet. I said I do not have a tablet. He refused to provide login credentials and demands to be informed as to what I device I would use to login. I asked why you need to know what form of device I use in order for you to provide the login credentials. He asserts that the UK Central Trust wants to know what date I access the internet to book my flight. This is the exact reverse of what the "doctor" informed me of the first time the potential option was presented to me. In that conversation, approximately 2-3 days ago, this same Pakistani "doctor" states that by Thursday that they could make arrangements to send me to a bed and breakfast for two weeks via a cab. From there I would be able to access the internet because they wanted "to respect my privacy." Now he just claimed the exact opposite. Then the "doctor" asked if I wished to speak to the director.

Most of the acts above violate U.S. federal law, international law and European law. Since NHS is a quasi-governmental entity its actions is representative of the nation state (United Kingdom) specifically the country of England where these criminal offenses occurred. In particular, European Convention on Human Rights (ECHR) and several of its articles are relevant:

- a. Article 5 § 1 of the Convention: 1. Everyone has the right to liberty and security of person. No one shall be deprived of his liberty save in the following cases and in accordance with a procedure prescribed by...⁴
- b. The United Kingdom is subject to this international law as it was not only a signatory, but also ratified this convention and incorporated as part of its domestic law through its passage of the Human Rights Act.⁵

51. West African NHS employees engaging in occult practices against visitors and guests. One West African female making a comment about me, "She is a child of God..." Their conduct to test or coerce individuals who are members of vulnerable population is in violation of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights: Art. 18, "No one may be compelled to belong to an association."

According to the U.S. Department of State's website:

⁴ See p. 10, "Deprivation of liberty outside formal arrest and detention 19. The question of applicability of Article 5 has arisen in a variety of circumstances, including: ▪ the placement of individuals in psychiatric or social care institutions (De Wilde, Ooms and Versyp v. Belgium; Nielsen v. Denmark; H.M. v. Switzerland; H.L. v. the United Kingdom; Storck v. Germany; A. and Others v. Bulgaria; Stanev v. Bulgaria [GC]; see also " Article 5 § 1, first sentence, lays down a positive obligation on the State not only to refrain from active infringement of the rights in question, but also to take appropriate steps to provide protection against an unlawful interference with those rights to everyone within its jurisdiction (El-Masri v. the former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia [GC], § 239)." NOTE: These cases do not make a distinction between a UK national and a tourist or visitor. These rights are to be protected as long as the individual is present within the borders of this nation state. Thus, Patricia M. Muhammad, a visitor, who had her rights deprived and violated, falls under the jurisdiction of these protections as defined and explained in the above-referenced case [Patricia M. Muhammad].

<https://www.legislation.gov.uk/ukpga/1998/42/section/2>

"The United States has no closer partner than the United Kingdom. Following the end of the American Revolution in 1783, the United Kingdom officially recognized American independence, and in 1785, our two countries established diplomatic relations. Other than a brief break in relations during the War of 1812, the United States and the United Kingdom have remained durable partners and Allies. Our partnership is the foundation of our mutual prosperity and security."⁶

The very nature of the conduct in which NHS employees in furtherance of a quasi UK governmental health agency towards me, a U.S. citizen/American demonstrates the lack of respect and lapse in the implementation of purported shared ideals, including the protection of human rights of American citizens abroad. I am requesting that the following federal agencies conduct a full and objective investigation into the incidents and human rights violations that I experienced as enumerated above during my stay in London, England, United Kingdom. Their conduct is also an example of crimes against humanity⁷ committed against me as outlined in the Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court. Their definition of crimes against humanity as enumerated in Article 7 and other UN Conventions are quite relevant.

Your careful attention to this matter is greatly appreciated. If you require any further information or details, I may best be reached via email at patriciammuhammad@gmail.com.
